

Sign the petition to scrap Lewisham's all-powerful mayor

A new mayor has been elected to replace Steve Bullock who was sole decision maker for our borough for 16 years.

Changing the person doesn't solve the problem though, and one person can't get everything right. This system discourages councillors from opposing the mayor who has the power to give them lucrative cabinet posts.

The 54 local councillors are easily available for people to raise issues with but they have no power to vote down the mayor's decisions.

The Millwall scandal, the unaffordable housing developments and the disastrous PFI contracts all point to a cosy relationship between speculators and the former mayor. It's time to hand decision making back to all councillors working together.
